They say love can be found in unexpected places — but sometimes it's right in front of you. If you meet someone while doing something you love, chances are you'll have a lot in common — or at least one key activity.

Couples have met while hiking, ballroom dancing or volunteering in the community. Others get together through religious groups or political functions.

Dawn Bieser just wanted to learn how to dance, so she signed up for a few of Robin Rebello's workshops in Los Altos. Every week Rebello invites her students, as well as the general public, to come to Cubberley Community Center for an hour of lessons followed by a dance party.

Bieser met her future husband Charlie Follis at her very first Friday Night Dance party 11 years ago. Follis had been coming for a year.

"I went with the expectation of learning to dance. The very nice thing about the dancing is you do meet people who enjoy the same things. It's a very non-threatening environment," she said.

"I was in my late 30s and single and didn't like the bar scene. I just wanted to

"We recently did a survey of volunteers who participated in our Hands On Bay Area Day. One of the top reasons people gave for why they volunteered was to meet people," Sabrina Qutb, development director, wrote in an e-mail.

"We even have a couple getting married this spring! ... We have many stories of love connections," she added.

Hiking is another common interest

Jazz with a feeling

LOCAL RESTAURANTS BLEND JAZZ, FOOD AND WINE FOR ROMANCE

By Sue Dremann

Soft and sultry or boisterous and swinging, jazz gets the love vibe going, aficionados and musicians say.

"We see romance every Friday night during our evening of cool jazz," said Jeff Taylor, a performer at jzCool Eatery and Wine Bar in Menlo Park.

"As one plays, you see all manner of celebrations, first encounters and anniversaries. The ones that are best usually revolve around a glow that comes from their faces as they both pause to take in the music. Usually, a ballad gets them every time. Tonight it was 'Somewhere over the Rainbow,'" he said one Tuesday in January.

Taylor is a member of the Peninsula Jazz Society, which has 60 local musi-

Whether it's dinner and a movie or dinner and dancing, food invariably plays into many people's concept of a romantic evening. Locally, there are hundreds of restaurants to choose from, but three stand out as the best spots to ignite romance through food, readers said. The following are the 2007 "best of" picks in the annual survey by the Voice and its sister papers, the Palo Alto Weekly and The Almanac.

Cascal

In a sleek leopard-print dress and high heels, Erica Rosero took to the dance floor at Cascal's in Mountain View. Dancing to the sound of Latin jazz band Danilo y su Orquesta Universal, Rosero and her partner Charlie D. were one of the many couples who enjoy Cascal's lively blend of music and tapas.

With its informal atmosphere and splitable specialties, Cascal was voted the best place in Mountain View for a first date among Voice readers.

Tiffany Mockler, a personal trainer, deems Cascal a good dating place because it is a "casual place to unwind," with "nice decor" and "laid-back clientele." In addition to the ambiance, Cascal has a good wine list, "which always helps," she said, though instead of wine she recommends a Cascal specialty, the homemade sangria.

She also recommends Cascal's unique tapas menu, which she says is well suited for dates because it allows dining partners to try several items on the menu.

Many couples order at least three or four tapas items, or small plates, to make a meal, proprietor Don Durante said. Adventurous and out-of-the-ordinary, the dishes provide diners with something to talk about.

For those not in the tapas mood, Cascal offers hearty traditional dishes in meal-sized portions. In addition to the ample food choices, Cascal offers a full bar and live weekend entertainment. Saturday and Sunday nights are particularly busy, with performances by musicians such as the bongo artist Danilo and the Flamenco group Kaweh. Live music is scheduled from 9:30 p.m. to midnight on Friday evenings. On Saturdays the show starts at 9 p.m. and lasts until 11:30 p.m.

There's always a vibe going on, with music or conversation. It gets noisy but people like it," Durante said.

St. Michael's Alley

The staff at St. Michael's Alley knows Tim Daniels and his wife, Patricia, by name. When the couple dines at the Palo Alto restaurant, they are greeted like returning friends and made to feel like there is always a place waiting for them, Daniels said.

One reason for the warm neighborhood feeling is the absence of pretension, according to Daniels.

"It's a place where you can simply be yourself and that's what makes it romantic and intimate," he said.

St. Michael's is the No. 1 favorite restaurant for romance among Weekly readers. Customers say that's because of proprietors Mike Sabina and Jennifer Youll.

"Everything that St. Michael's is is an extension of them. You see them in everything. ... You can feel their heart through everything," customer Dane Stark said.

In the next six to 10 weeks, the restau-

Village Pub

Terry Ratto of Los Altos brought the woman he admired to the Village Pub for their first date. This past Christmas Eve, the pair visited the restaurant at 2967 Woodside Road in Woodside again.

"I proposed to [my fiancée] at home, and local intimate dining" by Almanac readers in 2007.

This past holiday season, Sarah Sanchez and her boyfriend wanted to commemorate their last night together in 2007. On friends' advice, they ventured to the Village Pub. Though initially skeptical when the car's GPS led them to what appeared to be a Realty office, Sanchez and her boyfriend quickly found themselves in a dining room reminiscent of old movies and a time when dining out was considered a special occasion, she said.

"Where most restaurants might have

Locally, there are hundreds of restaurants to choose from, but three stand out as the best spots to ignite romance through food, readers said.

then we went to the Village Pub together. We sat at the same booth where we were seated on our first date," he said.

As a first-date place and as a place worthy of his engagement celebration, the Village Pub "worked out great," according to Ratto.

The service "is as good as I've had anywhere in the world. ... It's just perfection. You can go in and have a hamburger or a full meal and they will treat you like someone special," he said.

The restaurant was named the "best of you feeling like you should be honored to dine there, the Village Pub makes you feel as if they are truly honored to have you," she added.

Though the crimson upholstery, immaculate tablecloths, delicate stemware and understated wood paneling are always romantic, a few special touches are planned for Valentine's Day, according to manager Todd Brownstein said. The Pub will offer a prix fixe meal with optional wine pairings, Champagne selections and caviar. And every woman gets a rose. ■

Something magical

WINE AND FOOD PAIRINGS PERFECT FOR ROMANCE

By Alexander Papoulas

"Wine is good and food is good. Together though, they make something that is more than the sum of their parts. Something magical," said Randy Robinson of Palo Alto's Vino Locale Wine Bar.

For the novice and the uninitiated, looking to pair wine with food, especially for a special occasion, can be a daunting experience. Many small wine bars and retail shops dot the Peninsula, specializing in educating the public and demystifying the world of wine.

The newest trend in wine seems to be making it accessible to all who are interested in enjoying it, and ending long-held feelings about wine belonging only to an exclusive club of gourmets and food snobs. Food and wine pairings are also popular and will be a feature of Valentine's Day menus and events at some local wine bars.

At Castro Point in Mountain View, the emphasis is on making visitors comfortable and providing a learning experience, said executive chef John Tran. For novices, he suggested that tasting a wine flight is the best way to go.

"Don't be afraid to come in. You don't have to have knowledge of wine," he said.

Castro Point tries to meld the dining and wining experience by preparing foods that go well with the wine the visitor chooses. If someone comes in with a pinot noir or a chardonnay, he will prepare a meal that brings out the best in both the food and wine, he said.

Castro Point offers miso-glaze sea bass, California farm-fresh foods, seafood pot pie and a Kobe burger, which he says are among favorites at the restaurant.

Tuesdays through Thursdays, the restaurant features wine pairings with dishes on a prix-fixe menu, and there are monthly "meet-the-winemaker" events designed to educate the novice and connoisseur alike. ■ that appears to draw like-minded souls. Peter Andree, 54, met his partner Vicky Graham through Sierra Singles, a sub-group of the Loma Prieta chapter of the Sierra Club, a little more than two years ago.

For a Halloween dance, Andree dressed up in his best suit, added ribbons and bows and a gift tag that read "From God to Women."

"I guess she saw it and believed it. It pays to advertise," he said, tongue-in-cheek.

Andree, a chiropractor from Redwood City, was involved in Sierra Singles about a year before meeting Graham, a high-tech marketer from Brisbane.

"When you start with an affinity group, you start knowing you have at least one thing in common. You're not going to hook up with a couch potato in Sierra Club," he said.

While the hikes he leads tend to be short because of his arthritis, he said "You tend to meet people who are at your level. Beyond that, it's just the usual things that make people connect. You'll feel it with some people and not others. It's a friendly atmosphere, you see if you can make a connection, with no pressure."

Today both Andree and Graham are hike leaders, and have remained in the singles group even though they're in a relationship.

"We thought it would be hard if two leaders dropped out. We both enjoy the social aspect," Andree said. Once he was a member of another group called Meeting for Good, but that group went under after a number of couples met there and dropped out. "They were killed by their own success. They didn't have active people coming in to take their place," he said.

Andree contrasts the Sierra Singles events with a 10-minute dating event: "If I didn't meet anybody, I viewed it as an evening wasted." At Sierra Singles, "if you don't meet anybody, you generally have a good time."

Loma Prieta Sierra Singles has more than 800 single men and women members, and plans events in Santa Clara, San Mateo and San Benito counties. Singles who are 40-plus can hike with Singleaires. ■ cians who perform around the Bay Area. Members play at JzCool Eatery and Wine Bar on Wednesday evenings and at the Pioneer Saloon in Woodside every other Thursday night. Candice Hawley, who performs as Candice, had her first paying gig at age 16. Now a grandmother, she has a long history of love stories. Jazz is a fluid force that is shaped by the individual delivering the song, she said.

"Music softens hearts. People will often use a musical situation to melt the heart they want to embrace."

Candice will perform a set at the Pioneer Saloon on Valentine's Day from 8:30 to 10 p.m. Among the romantic tunes she will perform: "Crazy He Calls Me,"

"I'm Confessing that I Love You," "Day by Day," "Embraceable You" and "You Turned the Tables on Me." On the first and third Sundays of every month, she appears at Domenico Wines in San Carlos from 4 to 7 p.m.

"A song can be sung three different ways — as a ballad a bass or uptempo swing. There can be 10 people in front of you and portions of that lyric or melody will affect people in different ways," she said. "It's the freedom that exists, like the freedom in romance."

People often request songs as a prelude to a marriage proposal, she said. "With jazz standards, a couple will be sitting together and the gentleman will slide his chair closer to the lady and will sing the lyric along with me to his girlfriend or wife or sweetheart. It's so sweet," she said.

The most requested song? "My Funny Valentine," she said. ■

California Regional Water Quality Control Board
San Francisco Bay Region
1515 Clay Street, Suite 1400 Oakland, CA 94612

Notice of Issuance of and Public Hearing on A Complaint to Impose Mandatory Minimum Penalties (MMPs)

The Complaint

The Water Board Executive Officer has issued the following administrative civil liability complaint:

Complaint Number: MMP R2-

2007-0080

Discharger: Fairchild Semiconductor

System 19,

369 Whisman Road,

Mountain View

Liability amount: $9,000

Time period covered: January 1,

2006, to June 30, 2007

Permit Number violated: Order No. R2-

2004-0055

Brief description of violations: Effluent

Limitation Violations

Comments and Waiver Due Date

All written comments on the complaint are due no later than 5:00 p.m.

February 19, 2008. If the Discharger decides to waive its right to a hearing and agrees to pay the liability, such waiver is also due by this date. No written comments will be accepted or responded to in writing after that date.

Hearing to be Held

The Water Board hearing will be as follows:

Date and Time: March 11-12,

2008, 9:00 a.m.

Place: Auditorium, 1515 Clay

Street, Oakland

If the Discharger waives its right to a hearing and agrees to pay the proposed liability by the above-mentioned due date, this matter will be included on the agenda of the Water Board meeting but there will be no hearing on this matter, unless a) the Water Board staff receives significant public comment during the comment period, or b) the Water Board determines it will hold a hearing because it finds that new and significant information has been presented at the meeting that could not have been submitted during the public comment period. If the Discharger contests the complaint, the Water Board will consider the complaint and hear testimony and evidence from all interested parties at the public hearing. The Water Board may affirm, reject, or modify the proposed liabilities, or refer the matter to the Attorney General for recovery of civil liabilities. The Water Board may also accept a supplemental environmental project in lieu of all or portion of the liabilities. If the Discharger proposes a supplemental environmental project, that project will be publicly noticed and heard by the Water Board at its next regularly-scheduled hearing.
