

The Vytorin trials

LOCAL DOCTORS SAY RECENT FUROR OVER CLINICAL STUDY WAS SLIGHTLY OFF THE MARK

By Kathy Schrenk

Local cardiologists say the controversial heart drug Vytorin may not be the demon some people are making it out to be, but it isn't a cure-all either.

The drug's manufacturers, Merck and Schering-Plough, announced earlier this year that trial results show Vytorin doesn't help reduce to plaque build-up in arteries, but it does reduce LDL, or "bad," cholesterol.

These trial results don't really say much, though, according to Dr. Deepu Nair, cardiologist at Palo Alto Medical Foundation's Camino Medical Group in Mountain View.

"It wasn't really testing the main thing we use this drug for," said Dr. Nair. "I would say that the data are not clear."

Most doctors prescribe the drug to reduce cholesterol, said Dr. Dominick Curatola, a cardiologist at El Camino Hospital. After the study results were announced, there was a frenzy of coverage in the national media, with some stories claiming the drug didn't help at all and even caused cancer. As a result, Dr. Curatola's office was inundated with calls from concerned patients, even though Dr. Curatola said he doesn't prescribe it very much.

Usually, Curatola said, he prescribes statins to reduce cholesterol. The study, called "ENHANCE," compared statins to Vytorin.

Dr. Nair said he prescribes Vytorin for people who don't tolerate that statins or fibrates. In some cases, Dr. Curatola prescribes Vytorin to save the patient money: Some insurance companies will reimburse patients at a higher level for Vytorin than another drug.

Vytorin (pronounced vy-TOR-in) came out only four years ago. It is a combination of two other heart drugs, Zetia and Zocor.

Superfoods to the rescue

By Toni M Toledo and Rachel Freiberg

If the old saying "You are what you eat" is true, shouldn't we be eating the most nutritionally dense foods available? We all know we should eat a healthy diet, but what does this mean? Armed with some basic knowledge about "superfoods," a trip to the local grocery store can help you reduce your risk of developing the most common chronic health conditions, such as high cholesterol, heart disease and cancer, and can help improve existing conditions and overall health.

Q: Why are certain foods better for us than others?

A: Certain foods—always unprocessed "real" foods—are chock full of vitamins, minerals and antioxidants that can have a powerfully positive impact on our health. Plus, these vitamins, minerals and antioxidants are more potent and better absorbed in our bodies if we get them through our foods rather than through supplements.

Q: What foods should I be eating to ensure optimal health?

A: Some of the most common superfoods (those easily found in your local grocery store or farmer's market) include beans, blueberries, broccoli, edamame (soybeans), oats, oranges, pumpkin, wild salmon, spinach, tea (green or black), tomatoes, walnuts, yogurt, sweet potatoes, pomegranate, bell peppers (red, yellow, orange or green), garlic, eggs, apples and avocado.

Q: How much do I need to eat each day to get the health benefits?

A: Unfortunately, there is no magic amount of these superfoods to be eaten on a daily basis to guarantee their health benefits. However, the new USDA Food Guide Pyramid, named MyPyramid, does have a starting point on amounts to be eaten for veggies according to their color. For example, according to MyPyramid, a 35-year-old female who weighs 150 pounds and is 5 feet 4 inches tall should aim to eat the following quantity of vegetables every week:

- Dark green vegetables: 3 cups weekly
- Orange vegetables: 2 cups weekly
- Dry beans and peas: 3 cups weekly
- Starchy vegetables: 3 cups weekly
- Other vegetables: 6 1/2 cups weekly

Check out www.mypyramid.gov to get personal recommendations based on your age, gender, weight, height and activity level.

Q: I lead a very busy life, and I'm always on the go. How can I incorporate these superfoods into my lifestyle?

A: Here's the good news: You can take charge and incorporate these foods into your very busy lifestyle with minimal effort. Listed below are several strategies:

■ Strong Start: Blend a peeled orange, blueberries and yogurt with non-fat milk to make a delicious breakfast smoothie. If you don't have time to drink it at home, pour it into a travel mug to begin your day in a super healthy way.

■ Travel Treats: Simply throw an apple, orange, blueberries or edamame into your work or lunch bag. They travel well and are delicious as a snack or with lunch. A small handful of walnuts are also a great snack, or toss them onto a salad for yet another dose of a superfood.

■ Yummy Yogurt: Perfect

LOCAL PSYCHOLOGIST
TO GIVE TALK ON
'POSITIVE PSYCHOLOGY'
AT MOUNTAIN VIEW
LIBRARY

By Casey Weiss

A local psychologist is bringing a new field of psychology to Mountain View next week when she discusses "positive psychology" at the Mountain View public library.

Co-sponsored by the library, the presentation by Francine Toder, Ph.D., will cover how this field can help patients become truly happy — as opposed to other types of psychology which help people reduce negative feeling, she said.

Toder, a psychologist and executive coach in Palo Alto, will provide listeners with five ways to be happier during her talk. The free event will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 16 at 6:30 p.m. at the downtown library, located near City Hall.

Positive psychology is useful for anyone, not just patients who have had psychological problems in the past, Toder says. She describes the new field as "research-validated," and says she concentrates on what makes people happiest.

For more information, visit www.doctoder.com. For more on upcoming talks and events at the Mountain View library, visit www.mountainview.gov/library/default.asp. ■

Health is more than health care. Doctors treat us when we're ill, but what makes us healthy or sick in the first place? Research shows that social conditions — the jobs we do, the money we're paid, the schools we attend, the neighborhoods we live in — are as important to our health as our genes, our behaviors and even our medical care.

Zocor is a statin, a class of drugs that lowers cholesterol by reducing the absorption of it in the liver. Zetia works by blocking absorption of bad cholesterol in the intestine.

The study determined that Vytorin reduced LDL levels by 58 percent, compared with a 41 percent reduction with Zocor alone. The reduction was equal to 1 percent of a millimeter for Vytorin, versus a half percent of a millimeter for Zocor. These measurements are so small as to be insignificant, Dr. Curatola said.

One issue with the ENHANCE study is that it just wasn't very big, Dr. Nair said. It studied 720 patients; two trials that will come for breakfast, lunch, snack or dessert, yogurt is a great grab-and-go option. Individual servings are very portable, and you can even find portable cups of yogurt at local convenience stores.

■ Tea Time: It is easy to substitute green or black tea instead of coffee. Keep some tea bags in your purse or backpack and toss one in a mug with hot water, and you have a quick and healthy pick-me-up.

■ Restaurant Requests: Don't be afraid to ask for superfoods with your meal order. You might be surprised that restaurants can cook their wild salmon with garlic on a bed of spinach and — voila — you get three superfoods together.

■ Egg-cellent Option: Yes, eggs are good for you. They offer a great nutritional profile and are easy to grab-and-go. You can hard boil several at once and grab one on the way out the door for a high-protein snack.

The bottom line is this: Don't count on any single food as a quick fix or miracle cure. Enjoy a variety of healthy foods, and incorporate superfoods into your diet as often as you can. ▣ out in about three years involve more than twice that number.

ENHANCE was also less than revealing because it looked at the thickness of the corroded artery — not cardiac events like a heart attack or stroke.

“That's what we call a surrogate endpoint,” Dr. Nair said. “It doesn't look at hard events like heart attacks.”

Some patients called his office after the news, and a couple of them quit taking the drug, Dr. Nair said. That may or may not be a good thing, but it's hard to say, he said, because there just isn't enough information about Vytarin yet.

“It was over-prescribed early on, just because we knew it reduced bad cholesterol,” he said. “The statins are still our first, second and third choice.”

“It was marketed so heavily without a real end-point trial, which is a lesson for physicians: We have to wait for the trials,” he said. ▣
