■ RESTAURANT REVIEW

Ever seen “cheap” and Los Altos in the same sentence? Here you go: Cho’s Mandarin Dim Sum is very cheap and located in Los Altos.

Cho’s beloved potstickers, cash-only menu and utilitarian charm came to downtown Los Altos in February. Owners Daisy and Cho Yu had operated their hole-in-the-wall on California Avenue in Palo Alto for 35 years until last year, when their lease was not renewed.

Cho’s Mandarin Dim Sum has new digs in Los Altos, but the brief menu, which includes barbecued pork buns, remains the same.

Fans will appreciate three major improvements about the Los Altos location: easier parking, sidewalk tables and a Facebook page.

As always, Cho's Mandarin Dim Sum is mostly about take-out. There are no carts clattering around a dining room, no dining room at all, no pointing to the item you want. If you want to eat inside, there are two small tables and nothing to look at but the kitchen and a handwritten sign clarifying an important issue: "Potstickers are boiled and fried right in the pan for a crispy underside. They are also bigger. Dumplings are smaller and are only steamed."

Out on the sidewalk, the city has lined First Street with tables and chairs, shade trees and arbors. Eat out there, or somewhere quickly. This is not food that appreciates a long wait.

As always, Cho's menu is simplicity itself. There is one menu, posted at the front of the restaurant, with eight items, two combination plates and no paper menus to add to your recycling.

The signature pork potstickers are three for $3, six for $6. Chicken potstickers are three for $3.25, six for $6.25. Right out of the stir-fry pan, the crisp-bottomed won ton wrapper enfolds mildly spiced chopped meat and begs to be dipped in vinegar, soy or chili sauce.

To my mind, stick with the potstickers. Other places have higher quality, higher prices and dining rooms. At Su Hong To Go in Menlo Park, pot stickers are two for $2.90.

Pork potstickers are three for $3 at Cho's.

If you want to branch out, consider the No. 4 combo — $6 for one veggie egg roll, two pork buns and three pork potstickers — or the No. 6, which gives you chicken pot stickers with your egg roll and pork buns for $6.25. (One wonders what happened to combos 1, 2, 3 and 5.)

Potstickers also are available frozen. If you're going to wait more than half an hour to eat, doughy and gummy food is your fate. Microwaving only makes it worse. Better to buy frozen pot stickers and pan-fry at home.

Shrimp dumplings, three for $2.50, are soft and bland. Barbecued pork buns, three for $3, are very breadly. One veggie egg roll is $1.25. On my first visit, the egg roll was crunchy and tasty. Second time around it was way too oily.

Shanghai pork balls are three for $2.50. Note that these are not soup dumplings, just chopped pork in purse-shaped, steamed won-ton skins.

As with the menu, the beverage list keeps it simple: bottled water and soft drinks ($1.25).

If there's a cheaper restaurant in Los Altos, I can't think of it. A person can dine heartily and quickly at Cho's, then have time and money left for splurging on vegan sorbet or salted butter-scotch ice cream at Tin Pot Creamery next-door. ▣

Anna, a depressed outsider, finds a friend in Marnie in Studio Ghibli's latest animated film.

The outsiders

ANIME ‘WHEN MARNIE WAS THERE’ SPEAKS TO THE YOUNG AND RESTLESS

★★★ 1/2 (Guild)

With the recent retirement of Studio Ghibli co-founder Hayao Miyazaki, the studio has taken a pause to consider its future. Essentially the Japanese Disney (but arguably more elegant in its storytelling and artistry), Studio Ghibli produced the Academy Award-winning “Spirited Away,” among many other animated films. Now, “When Marnie Was There” could be the end of the road, and if so, it’s a typically beautiful, fittingly wistful goodbye.

Based on the novel by Joan G. Robinson, “When Marnie Was There” introduces us to shy, anxious, 12-year-old asthmatic foster child Anna Sasaki (Sara Takatsuki; Hailee Steinfeld in the English dub), who sits sketching in a public park — or perhaps not quite in it. “In this world, there’s an invisible magic circle,” she narrates. “There’s inside and outside. These people are inside. And I’m outside.” Anna’s demonstrable depression (“I’m ugly and stupid. That’s why I hate myself”) and flare-ups of anxiety exacerbate her asthma, leading her doctor and her foster mother, Yoriko (Nanako Matsushima; Geena Davis), to agree she needs a summertime change of scenery.

Hang on to your ego

IN ‘LOVE & MERCY,’ TWO ACTORS SHARE THE ROLE OF BRIAN WILSON

★★★ 1/2 (Century 20, Palo Alto Square)

Can a person ever really change? At least for Brian Wilson — the musical genius behind the Beach Boys — the unfortunate, unequivocal answer is “yes.” The honorable biopic “Love & Mercy” literalizes this truism by casting two actors as Wilson (Paul Dano and John Cusack) and focusing on two periods in the man’s life: his most creatively fertile period, from roughly 1963 to 1967, and the period during which he met his current wife Melinda (Elizabeth Banks) and broke free of notoriously controlling therapist Eugene Landy (Paul Giamatti), from roughly 1986 to 1991.

Wilson’s tale of triumph, tragedy and survival remains one of the best-known in rock-and-roll history, and by dramatizing these episodes in Wilson’s life, Oren Moverman’s “Love & Mercy” screenplay avoids the trap of becoming another slavish chronology of the Beach Boys.

As with his script for the unconventional Bob Dylan biopic, “I’m Not There,” Moverman takes a step back and considers what best represents his subject: Wilson’s summery ascendance as the astonishingly talented pop-symphonic composer of “God Only Knows” and “Good Vibrations,” his fall into deeply damaging drug abuse and crippling bedridden depression, the winter of his discontent under Landy’s control and the redemptive spring of “love and mercy” (also the title of a 1988 Wilson composition) offered by Melinda and reunited family and friends.

Of course, real life was not all as simple as the love of a good woman saving Wilson from a horrible man. But in most respects, “Love & Mercy” proves accurate in spirit and in fan service, including reverently detailed recreations of iconic photo shoots and promo films, concerts and the studio sessions for masterpiece “Pet Sounds.”

Cusack bears a lesser resemblance to Wilson and doesn’t have Dano’s mien, but he does a solid job of conveying Wilson’s loneliness and fear in the shadow of the man who has become his Svengali.

In sum, “Love & Mercy” takes

And so it is that Anna relocates from urban Sapporo to the quaint seaside village of Kushiro. On the bright side, Kushiro offers a fresh start, a change of pace and scenery. Installed with a cheery aunt and uncle who seem only to put Anna’s depression into starker relief, Anna begins habitually to visit the Marsh House, a beautiful, empty manse that turns out to be occupied by Marnie (Kasumi Arimura; Kiernan Shipka), a blue-eyed girl with blond locks curling at the ends. The girls pledge to be each other’s “precious secret,” and though Marnie clasps Anna’s hand and insists, “It’s not a dream,” their friendship seems to good to be true.

Hiromasa Yonebayashi helms this latest gentle, sensitive, unhurried tale.

Midpeninsula viewers can choose from two versions; the Guild Theatre will screen the dubbed film during daytime shows and the subtitled one in the evenings.

Either way, the rigorous storytelling, culminating in a potent twist, comes second to the almost hypnotic mood and aching, empathy-stoking feeling, especially for those of any age who can relate to the talented but emotionally stunted Anna.

Rated PG for thematic elements and smoking. One hour, 43 minutes.

COURTESY ROADSIDE ATTRACTIONS

a considered approach to Wilson, sound in dramatic construction and insightful in its psychological subtexts. Wilson’s innocent essence — optimistic and pure in its spiritual desires for love and art — make his story deeply moving: It’s easy to get swept up in his enthusiasm for creation and his pain at unjust, unfathomable abuse. He’s not the man he used to be, but he’s surely earned his happy ending.

Rated PG-13 for thematic elements, drug content and language. Two hours.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER

ESTATE OF:

DAWN ELLEN HYDE

Case No.: 1-15-PR 176524

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DAWN ELLEN HYDE. A Petition for Probate has been filed by: SIOBHAN MARIE WALDRON in the Superior Court of California, County of SANTA CLARA.

The Petition for Probate requests that: SIOBHAN MARIE WALDRON be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on July 2, 2015 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept.: 10, of the Superior Court of California, County of Santa Clara, located at 191 N. First St., San Jose, CA, 95113. If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the date of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58 (b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

DELEON REALTY SUMMER SPLASH

DeLeon Realty is excited to announce the July Summer Splash.

Buyers often want to buy homes during the summer so they can get settled before the new school year. However, real estate agents have traditionally advised sellers to wait until the fall because the low inventory causes buyers to lose focus.

In response to what buyers and sellers want, DeLeon Realty is breaking with tradition and releasing some of the year's best listings between July 13th and July 26th.

There will be special incentives for anyone who buys a DeLeon listing during the Summer Splash, including a $5,000 gift certificate to Flegel's Interior Design & Home Furnishings. That's right, DeLeon Realty will attract more BUYERS by giving them $5,000 to spend at one of Silicon Valley's best furniture stores.

Check out the next issue of The DeLeon Insight or visit www.DeLeonRealty.com for more information.

Give us a call at 650.488.7325 if you would like to list your home during our Summer Splash.

The home must be in contract by July 31, 2015. The transaction must close by September 1, 2015 and the Gift Certificate must be used by March 31, 2016. There is no cash value to the certificate. Lost certificates will not be replaced. The certificate will be issued in the Buyers' names and they are non-transferable. Please check our website at www.deleonrealty.com for further details.
