Local chefs offer tips for making the most of farmers markets' seasonal bounty

The seasonal Los Altos farmers market runs May through September at 2nd and State streets.

■ FOOD FEATURE

Spring in California means asparagus, artichokes, fava beans, squash, berries, peaches, plums and more.

It's also opening season for several local farmers markets that don't run year-round, including in downtown Palo Alto and Los Altos. We mapped all of the Midpeninsula's farmers markets and talked to local chefs to get recipes for dishes that draw upon this season's local bounty.

Haochen Liu, Kumino, Mountain View

Miso ricotta frittata with asparagus

Miso and soy sauce in a spring frittata? Haochen Liu, chef-owner at Asian-fusion restaurant Kumino in Mountain View, uses asparagus and Japanese ingredients to transform an Italian-style frittata.

Servings: 4
Cooking time: 20 minutes

Ingredients:

8 large organic eggs
1.5 tbsp brown miso
1 tbsp soy sauce
4 oz ricotta cheese
8 asparagus
Salt

Instructions:

1. Whisk the eggs with miso and soy sauce until well mixed.
2. Crumble the ricotta cheese into small pieces, around 1/4 inch.
3. Cook asparagus in boiling salted water for 20 seconds, then plunge into ice water to cool down.
4. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly oil a non-stick pan or skillet. Heat the pan or skillet until lightly smoking, pour the egg mixture into the pan, and put the pan into oven for around 8 minutes until it's half done.
5. Top with ricotta cheese and asparagus, then put the pan back into oven until the eggs are fully cooked and lightly browned.
6. Take the pan out of oven, cut the frittata into four pieces and serve warm.

The Midpeninsula is home to eight farmers markets, with downtown Mountain View, California Avenue in Palo Alto and downtown Menlo Park open year-round. Seasonal markets in Redwood City, downtown Palo Alto, Los Altos, Portola Valley and the Facebook campus in Menlo Park are now open through the summer. For hours and locations, go to mv-voice.com.

Roast chicken breast, garlic noodles and charred spring vegetables

Garlic noodles is Liu's "signature dish" at Kumino. "I like to share my recipe with my neighbors," he said. "Charred Brussels sprouts and cauliflower is my favorite way to cook these vegetables."

Serving: 4
Portion size: 14-16 oz
Cooking time: 40-50 minutes

Garlic noodles:

1/3 pack Barilla linguine pasta
8 garlic cloves
2 oz onion
3 tbsp soy sauce
1 tsp sugar
4 oz butter
1 tbsp parsley

Instructions:

1. Put garlic, onion, soy sauce and sugar into a blender to blend into paste.
2. Cook pasta in a salted boiling water for 8 minutes; keep stirring to make sure it is not sticking together.
3. Heat the butter in a non-stick pan until melted. Add pasta and garlic paste. Stir just until the noodles are tender.
4. Add parsley and salt to taste.

Crispy roast chicken:

4 chicken breasts, skin on
Salt, black pepper, cake flour

Instructions:

1. Salt and pepper the chicken breast on both sides. Coat the skin side with cake flour.
2. Heat the oven to 350 degrees. Cover the bottom of the pan with oil and heat until it is lightly smoking. Sear the skin side of chicken until crispy brown, and then turn the skin side up. Put the pan into oven until fully cooked, around 14 to 15 minutes.

Charred spring vegetables:

1 cup carrots, large dice
1 cup Brussels sprouts (trimmed and cut to same size as carrots)
1 cup cauliflower, cut to same size as carrots

Instructions:

1. Cook the vegetables in boiling water for two minutes.
2. Drain the water, oil the pan and stir-fry the vegetables until fully cooked. Turn the oven to broil and put the pan into oven until the vegetables are caramelized.
3. Mix the vegetables with butter, soy sauce and vinegar; add salt to taste.

To serve, put garlic noodles on the bottom of plate and add chicken on top of the noodles, skin side up. Add the vegetables alongside the chicken.

Jarad Gallagher, Chez TJ, Mountain View

Monterey Bay halibut with vadouvan and early summer squash

At Chez TJ in downtown Mountain View, the season drives the menu. The Michelin-starred kitchen only serves produce, meat and seafood that has been grown, raised or sourced within 100 miles of the restaurant. Executive Chef Jarad Gallagher is a frequent visitor to farmers markets, including Menlo Park and Los Altos (where last week he picked up some choice zucchini blossoms and squash).

Servings: 4

Ingredients:

Marinated halibut (see recipe below)
Squash gratin (see recipe below)
Kabocha squash puree (see recipe below)
2 fresh lemons
1 oz fresh basil leaves
4 fresh zucchini blossoms
2 oz California extra virgin olive oil

2 oz + 1 oz grass-fed butter
Sea salt, black pepper

Marinated halibut:

1 1/2 lbs halibut (one large piece with the skin and bones removed)
1 tbsp vadouvan powder
1/2 tsp fine ground black pepper
1 tsp fine ground sea salt
1 oz extra virgin olive oil

Instructions:

Mix all ingredients together, except the halibut. Spread the mixture on the fish. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for two hours.

Squash gratin (best if made the day before):

2 lbs mixed summer baby squashes
2 oz butter
6 oz heavy cream
1 tsp black pepper
1/4 tsp cayenne pepper
1 tsp fennel pollen
4 oz fresh grated Parmesan cheese

Instructions:

1. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Butter a baking dish that is 8 inches long and 3-4 inches wide.
2. Slice all the squashes 1/4-inch thick, discarding any large seed pockets (they will make the gratin too runny). Layer the squashes in the dish.
3. Bring remaining ingredients, except for the cheese, to a boil using a saute pan. Pour the sauce pan contents over the squash and place uncovered into the preheated oven for 12 minutes. Top with the cheese and return to the oven for 15 more minutes.
4. Remove from the oven and allow to rest at room temperature for one hour. Press plastic wrap over the top of the gratin and place a weight on top to compress it. Place in the refrigerator until completely chilled.

Kabocha squash puree:

1 kabocha squash, peeled, seeds removed and diced into 2-inch pieces
6 oz butter
2 oz extra virgin olive oil
1 sheet nori, chopped into small pieces
1 tbsp toasted white sesame seeds
1 tsp sea salt
1/2 tsp black pepper

Instructions:

Boil the squash in water and salt until it's fall-apart tender. Pour into a strainer and let it sit in the strainer for three minutes until all the water has run off and the squash looks very dry. Mix all remaining ingredients with the squash in a bowl using a large fork.

Final instructions:

1. Allow the halibut piece to rest at room temperature for 30 minutes before cooking. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
2. Place both the gratin and the puree in oven safe dishes and cover with foil. Heat them in the oven until warmed through. Using a frying pan large enough to fit the halibut, slowly heat the pan over medium heat. Add olive oil and butter; when melted, add the halibut. For each 1 inch of thickness, sear the halibut for two minutes on each side while basting the side that is facing up.

3. After searing each side, squeeze the lemon juice over the fish and place in the oven with the gratin and puree. Heat the fish until its internal temperature reaches 120 degrees, remove from the oven and allow to rest on a cooling rack. (If you don't have a cooling rack, use paper towels and a plate.)

4. Remove the gratin and puree from the oven, making sure that both are heated all the way through.

5. Place a large spoonful of the puree on each plate, break the halibut into four pieces and place each piece on top of the puree. Carefully remove the gratin and place a piece next to the fish. Tear the basil leaves and the zucchini blossom, throwing out any stems, as a garnish. Sprinkle with sea salt and coarsely ground pepper to taste. Melt the remaining butter and drizzle over the entire dish.

Bradley Ogden, Bradley's Fine Diner, Menlo Park

Asparagus and spring garlic soufflé corn spoonbread

Chef-owner Bradley Ogden of Bradley's Fine Diner goes to the Menlo Park farmers market almost every weekend. This dish takes advantage of the market's fresh asparagus and pairs it with spring garlic, also known as green garlic. Spring garlic resembles a small leek and has a milder flavor than mature garlic. Its short season typically ends in May.

Servings: 6-8

Ingredients:

3 large eggs
1 cup water
1 cup milk
1/4 cup butter, unsalted
1 teaspoon kosher salt
1/2 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
2 teaspoons fresh red or green jalapeño chiles, minced
3/4 cup yellow cornmeal (preferably from Anson Mills)
1 cup buttermilk
1/4 cup spring garlic, finely sliced
2 cups asparagus, blanched and peeled, cut into 1/2-inch pieces

Instructions:

1. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Butter a 3-inch deep, 2-quart casserole dish.
2. Separate the eggs, dividing them into three yolks and two whites. Save the remaining egg white for another use.
3. In a 2-quart saucepan, combine the water, milk, butter, salt, pepper and minced jalapeño and bring to a simmer over medium heat. Slowly add the cornmeal, stirring vigorously to make sure no lumps form.
4. Cook about two minutes or until the mixture is very thick. Slowly add the buttermilk, stirring until blended, and remove from heat. Let the mixture cool slightly. Mix in the egg yolks, one at a time, then fold in the spring garlic and asparagus.
5. In a clean, dry mixing bowl, beat the two egg whites until soft peaks form. Fold the egg whites into the cornmeal mixture. Pour into the buttered casserole dish, place into a larger pan of hot water and bake for 20 minutes.
6. When done, the spoon bread should still be soft, not completely set, and light golden brown in color.

A REMARKABLE TRUE STORY DRAGS FOR 'INFINITY'

★★(Guild)

The story is in the telling, so they say. Writer-director Matthew Brown sets out with the arresting true story of extraordinary mathematician Srinavasa Ramanujan but tells it in a milquetoast manner: "The Man Who Knew Infinity" can repeat its formula by rote, but develops no breakthrough theory of its own.

Oddly, writer-director Brown hasn't made a film since his obscure debut 15 years ago with "Ropewalk," an ensemble romantic comedy set in Nantucket. And yet here he is, with Ramanujan's story—based on Robert Kanigel's bio "The Man Who Knew Infinity: A Life of the Genius Ramanujan"—a bona fide cast, and production values to rival the likes of this picture's most obvious precursor, "The Theory of Everything." The pinch-me situation doesn't quite rise to that of Ramanujan himself, an autodidact whose persistence won him a passage from East Indian obscurity to the University of Cambridge in 1913.

Dev Patel plays Ramanujan with the same gaping earnestness and amusing eagerness that long ago became his stock in trade, and the actor thus deserves some credit for "Infinity's" lack of imagination in conceiving Ramanujan as a character.

In his hometown of Madras, India, Ramanujan woos and wins a bride, Janaki (Devika Bhise), then wriggles away from both her and his doubting Brahmin family when he earns admittance to Cambridge's Trinity College and meets his mentor, G.H. Hardy (Jeremy Irons). Ramanujan's raw talent for mathematical theory befuddles and frustrates the Cambridge dons, most of whom dismiss his work out of sheer racism or the more practical matter of Ramanujan's habit of not showing his work in proofs.

Jeremy Irons and Dev Patel star in "The Man Who Knew Infinity."

It's up to Hardy to drive forward Ramanujan's work, assimilating him without blotting his genius and proving to the mathematical world that Ramanujan is one for the ages. In the process, Ramanujan, Hardy and the professor's confidant, John Edensor Littlewood (Toby Jones), become friends and conspirators with common interests and goals.

But wouldn't you know it? Their drive to "publish or perish" begins to look a lot more like "publish and perish" as the Great War borrows Littlewood, and Ramanujan, who is barely past 30, develops a telltale cough.

"The Man Who Knew Infinity" sturdily synthesizes the key points of Ramanujan's life while focusing on a classic, unlikely friendship. Ramanujan's faith proffers an obvious mystical contrast to Hardy's avowed atheism. The spirit and—oh, let's just say it—"beautiful mind" of the former wear down the stodgy defenses of the latter. It's here that Brown invests all his drama. By reducing the two men to familiar archetypes, however, Brown must rely on Irons' nuance and Patel's lack thereof to fill in what's not on the page and struggle to make what is on the page (lines like "There are no proofs that can determine the outcome of matters of the heart") sound like human speech.

The truths of this true story were undoubtedly more complicated.

The meeting of these minds and souls and a deeper dive into the mathematics themselves, might have been considerably more interesting than the dully inspirational "The Man Who Knew Infinity." It's a pity Brown can neither literally nor figuratively "show the work."

Rated PG-13 for some thematic elements and smoking. One hour, 48 minutes.

■ MOVIE REVIEWS

CAPTAIN AMERICA: CIVIL WAR ★★★

When it comes to superhero culture, can there be too much of a good thing? Marvel Studios' unprecedented plan, in cahoots with Disney — and a generally enthusiastic reception from fans and critics alike — reaches a new zenith with "Captain America: Civil War," which proves more satisfying than the heavily hyped "Avengers" films that preceded it. Here we have a superhero movie that gathers no fewer than 15 heroes and villains. They populate a sprawling story with marching orders to serve as a direct sequel to "Captain America: The Winter Soldier." And it resolves the can of worms that film opened concerning Cap's sidekick-turned-"Manchurian Candidate" super-soldier "Bucky" Barnes, played by Sebastian Stan. It's also a franchise-launching introduction to the new Spider-Man (teenage Tom Holland). Seemingly, it's everything a comic-book junkie would expect from a single Marvel movie, and more. For the price of a single ticket, you get a James Bondian film-opening action sequence, times four (heroes); a centerpiece six-on-six clash of the super-heroic titans; and a twisty fight climax. Questions of collateral damage (as Avengers "routinely ignore sovereign borders") plague our heroes, prompting U.S. Secretary of State Thaddeus "Thunderbolt" Ross (William Hurt) to announce that the U.N. has drafted a superhero-control act dubbed the Sokovia Accords. And there's the sticking point of this "Civil War": Steve "Captain America" Rogers (Chris Evans) doesn't trust nations to set agendas when the stakes remain so high, while Tony "Iron Man" Stark (Robert Downey, Jr.) feels it's time to earn back some trust. Heroes old and new line up with Team Cap or Team Iron Man. It's just the discord the mysterious baddie Helmut Zemo (Daniel Bruhl) wants: "to see an empire fall." And it's just what a modern movie audience craves: prime action-adventure fare. Rated PG-13. Two hours, 27 minutes. —PC

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:

ZENON MICHAEL SZALATA also known as ZENON MICHAEL SZALATA

Case No.: 1-16-PR-178768

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of ZENON MICHAEL SZALATA, also known as ZENON MICHAEL SZALATA.

A Petition for Probate has been filed by: JENNIFER SZALATA in the Superior Court of California, County of SANTA CLARA.

The Petition for Probate requests that: JENNIFER SZALATA be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on July 6, 2016 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept.: 10 of the Superior Court of California, County of Santa Clara, located at 191 N. First St., San Jose, CA, 95113.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58 (b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
