NAPOLETANA PIZZERIA STAYS FAITHFUL TO FAMILY RECIPES, WITH TASTY RESULTS

Story by Dale F. Bentson | Photos by Veronica Weber

It was the authentic Neapolitan pizza I went for, but it was the spaghetti carbonara ($16) that I loved and dreamed about for days afterward. A large, glorious bowl of pasta, eggs, pancetta, Parmesan and olive oil in perfect harmony. It sat before me like a golden nest, velvety but not runny, the sauce adhering to the fork as I twisted and spun the noodles around a spoon. No cream in the sauce, just raw eggs cooked by the hot pasta.

According to Costas Eleftheriadis, owner of Napoletana Pizzeria in Mountain View, all the recipes he uses are from his grandmother in Naples. Nonna was a great cook.

Carbonara has been fancified since its humble origins. Alan Davidson in “The Oxford Companion to Food” suggests that spaghetti alla carbonara was created in Rome in 1944 with American occupation troops sharing their abundant rations of eggs and bacon with local chefs. Naples isn’t Rome, but the way Napoletana makes it, it’s about the best carbonara I’ve had either here or in Italy.

The fettuccine alla Bolognese ($18), made with minced beef and tomato sauce, was also delicious, with an abundance of meat and not overly sauced. In Italy, ragù alla Bolognese dresses the pasta, not drowns it. The kitchen at Napoletana struck the right balance. The sauce was made with Italian plum tomatoes, garlic, carrots, onion, celery, and was modestly seasoned and abundantly delicious.

Napoletana is famed for its authentic Neapolitan pizza. Eleftheriadis earned his VPN certification in 2010 from the Associazione Verace Pizza Napoletana, an international organization established in 1984 to cultivate the culinary art of Neapolitan pizza. The organization offers classes, workshops and training. It’s not like earning an MBA in pizza-making, but the Associazione teaches methods and techniques and has specifications to maintain the best Neapolitan standards.

One VPN requisite is a wood-fired dome oven that maintains a temperature of at least 900 F. Pizzas are fully baked in 60 to 90 seconds. Fortuitously, Eleftheriadis found a spot that had an existing wood-fired oven when he opened in 2011. The small space, adjacent to Cost Plus in a strip mall, had housed a hodgepodge of restaurants over the years and the oven had been idle for some time. He uses a combination of walnut, almond and oak hardwoods in his oven.

“They burn hotter, with no smoke and maintain a nice even heat,” Eleftheriadis said.

Eleftheriadis only uses flour, water, salt and natural yeast to make his pizza dough. The wheat flour, type “00” or doppio zero, is imported from Italy. It’s lower in protein and gluten than American flours, mellow, more supple and easier to shape. The resulting pizza crusts are light, airy and have a crisp snap, with just a slight blistering around the edges.

Napoletana Pizzeria's menu stays authentic to Naples' pizza-making traditions with its tomato-and-basil Margherita, classic calzone and cherry tomato-topped pizza alla checca.

Eleftheriadis changed careers when the company he worked for as a pilot and flight instructor consolidated local operations in Connecticut. He became interested in pizza-making while visiting family in Naples.

All the pizza varieties Eleftheriadis makes are combinations found in Naples — no pepperoni, no bacon-stuffed crusts and no pineapple.

The Napoletana pizza ($18) came topped with tomato sauce, fresh mozzarella, a generous amount of homemade Italian sausage, basil leaves and drizzled with olive oil. It was my personal favorite, though Eleftheriadis says the Margherita is his best seller.

The Napoletana looked as good as it tasted, with succulent slices, luxuriously layered, slightly aromatic and a slight tang to the crust and hint of spiciness in the sausage. The thin pizza cooled down within a minute or two and was easy to handle without utensils.

was covered with fresh mozzarella and garlic and topped with sweet Parma prosciutto curls and crisp, peppery arugula.

Napoletana seats just over 40, so arriving early is advisable. The restaurant doesn't deliver, but it does offer take-out. Besides pizza and pasta, there is a small selection of soups, salads, antipasti, and a dozen reasonably priced wines and beers.

I was fascinated by the dessert menu's eight options, all frozen and imported from Italy. Not only were the desserts tasty, the presentation was high-quality. The limoncello tartufo ($6) with lemon gelato and a frozen limoncello core came covered with meringue sprinkles. It was zesty, clean and vibrant, a yellow dome of creamy delight.

Coppa mascarpone ($7) was luscious chocolate cream layered with silky mascarpone, and topped with crunchy amaretto cookie crumbs and tiny chocolate curls.

Napoletana is a small restaurant with a justifiably large reputation. Eleftheriadis has been unwavering in his adherence to Neapolitan standards. That's been good for him and good for us. ▣

KING ARTHUR: LEGEND OF THE SWORD ★★

That most flexible of ancient legends gets a new workout in Guy Ritchie's "King Arthur: Legend of the Sword." Certainly, this is the first version of the King Arthur story to feature a character referred to as "Kung Fu George," but let's just say Ritchie's take on Arthurian legend isn't going to surprise anyone who knows what's up at the multiplex these days. We get a "King Arthur" in which the displaced royal — cast off Moses-like after the murder of his parents — grows up thinking he's "the bastard son of a prostitute," raised in a Londinium brothel to become a gangster with a crew. The film, however, feels like a rather desperate attempt — in design, music, and even casting — to score some of that sweet "Game of Thrones" cash. And since "Batman Begins" remains the template for origin-story reboots, "Legend of the Sword" doubles down on traumatized boys and gives Arthur martial-arts training sourced from the Far East. Despite some striking visuals and the occasional evocation of "Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves," this newfangled "Arthur" comes up short on grandeur or even old-fashioned matinee adventure. Rated PG-13 for sequences of violence and action, some suggestive content and brief strong language. Two hours, 6 minutes. — P.C.

GUARDIANS OF THE GALAXY VOL. 2 ★★1/2

Don't think too hard about "Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2," although there's probably little danger of that. It's exactly what you'd expect writer-director James Gunn to deliver as a sequel to the 2014 Marvel space adventure he likewise spearheaded. Everything that made the first film well received is back: the goofy cast of characters, arch jokes, lively interstellar action, and a rainbow-sherbet color scheme. The mercenary Guardians (including Zoe Saldana's dead-serious

Nick Robinson and Amandla Stenberg star in "Everything, Everything."

'Everything' is not all that

YA ROMANCE IS LESS THAN THE SUM OF ITS PARTS

★ (Century 16 & 20)

Nicola Yoon's young adult romance novel "Everything, Everything" proffered a canny allegory for teenage girls: parents who don't let you do anything resembles having a disease that keeps you housebound. Heroine Madeline Whittier has SCID (Severe Combined Immuno-Deficiency), effectively making her the Girl in the Plastic Bubble, but when love comes knocking, Maddy answers the call.

Maddy (Amandla Stenberg) lives with her mother Pauline (Tony winner Anika Noni Rose), who also serves as her doctor (uh oh), in an elaborately tricked-out suburban home. "Simple viruses can kill me," Maddy explains, and the specters of a dead husband and child fuel Pauline's intense fear for Maddy's health. Nevertheless, events conspire to give Maddy a great adventure: She turns 18 and a cute boy moves in next door. And with a name like Olly Bright, he's got to be prime YA romance material.

And indeed he is. His curiosity piqued by the glass-encased beauty next door, Olly (Nick Robinson) begins reaching out, mostly through text messages and pantomime from his window, but eventually more boldly. I'll avoid spoiling the movie (the trailer does a good enough job of that), but suffice it to say that when desire meets with an obstacle, love finds a way (and a credit card). Also, writers find a way, sometimes by not doing justice to their own premises.

Screenwriter J. Mills Goodloe and director Stella Meghie show the most imagination in staging Maddy and Olly's conversations when they're physically apart. Since Maddy aspires to a career in architecture, she envisions talking to Olly in buildings that thus far only exist in her mind and as scale models in her house.

Sadly, pretty much everything, everything else in "Everything, Everything" adheres to cliché. When the young couple first kisses, literal fireworks appear at precisely that moment, and there's an image deeper into the film depicting Olly running across a golden field toward Maddy. Since Maddy's wanderlust involves the ocean, there's also a fair amount of footage shot on Mexican beaches doubling for Hawaii. The novel's known for its swoony lines, and the film follows suit ("When I talk to him, I feel like I'm outside"), but much of the generic YOLO (you only live once) dialogue works as a sleep aid.

When all is said and done, though, "Everything, Everything" plays fast and loose to give teens (and, more likely, preteens) what they want. The more the story panders, the less interesting it gets — which is not to say it was terribly interesting from the start. As a character, Olly is little more than an ideal-boyfriend foil for Maddy, who's not terribly deep herself. Soft-touch kids may enjoy the smooth-jazz romance of this ludicrous fantasy, with true love challenged by caring but misguided parental overprotectiveness, but the story fails to deal honestly with its what-if scenarios.

Rated PG-13 for thematic elements and brief sensuality. One hour, 36 minutes.

— Peter Canavese

PG-13 for sequences of sci-fi action and violence, language, and brief suggestive content. Two hours, 16 minutes. — P.C.

JEREMIAH TOWER: THE LAST MAGIFICENT ★★1/2

Lydia Tenaglia's documentary "Jeremiah Tower: The Last Magificent" looks at the life of local chef Jeremiah Tower, who is credited with developing the culinary style known as "California Cuisine" and had ties to Palo Alto during the 1990s when he opened a branch of his famed San Francisco Stars restaurant on Lytton Avenue during the height of his career. With her documentary, Tenaglia begins by establishing the enigma of her subject:

Tower emerged as a superstar chef, reached a pinnacle, then disappeared from the scene. A friend of 40 years maintains, "Nobody knows Jeremiah." Seen striding alone, Tower himself muses alone in voice over, "I have to stay away from human beings, because somehow I am not one." The prelude describes a mystery and teases another: will the film you're watching realize its seeming goal to penetrate that mystery? The answer, alas, is "Not really." But that doesn't mean the film isn't worth watching, only that Tower treated his participation in the documentary like everything else in his career: something to be approached strictly on his own terms. Rated R for language. One hour, 43 minutes. — P.C.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
BARBARA C. MOORE aka BARBARA CAROL MOORE
Case No.: 17PR180968

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of BARBARA C. MOORE aka BARBARA CAROL MOORE.
A Petition for Probate has been filed by: SARAH MOORE in the Superior Court of California, County of SANTA CLARA.
The Petition for Probate requests that SARAH MOORE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 29, 2017 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept.: 12 of the Superior Court of California, County of Santa Clara, located at 191 N. First St., San Jose, CA, 95113.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58 (b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor.

You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

SUMMONS (CITACION JUDICIAL)

Case No.: MC026882

NOTICE TO DEFENDANT:
(AVISO AL DEMANDADO):
Crowland Corporation; and DOES 1 through 11, inclusive

YOU ARE BEING SUED BY PLAINTIFF:
(LO ESTA DEMANDANDO EL DEMANDANTE):

Tasso Pattas and Soula Pattas

NOTICE! You have been sued. The court may decide against you without your being heard unless you respond within 30 days. Read the information below. You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court.

There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association. NOTE: The court has a statutory lien for waived fees and cost on any settlement or arbitration award of $10,000 or more in a civil case. The court's lien must be paid before the court will dismiss the case.

AVISO! Lo han demandado. Si no responde dentro de 30 días, la corte puede decidir en su contra sin escuchar su versión. Lea la información a continuación.

Tiene 30 DIAS DE CALENDARIO despues de que le entreguen esta citacion y papeles legales para presentar una respuesta por escrito en esta corte y hacer que se entregue una copia al demandante. Una carta o una llamada telefonica no lo protegen. Su respuesta por escrito tiene que estar en formato legal correcto si desea que procesen su caso en la corte. Es posible que haya un formulario que usted pueda usar para su respuesta. Puede encontrar estos formularios de la corte y mas informacion en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California (www.sucorte.ca.gov), en la biblioteca de leyes de su condado o en la corte que le quede mas cerca. Si no puede pagar la cuota de presentacion, pida al secretario de la corte que le de un formulario de exencion de pago de cuotas. Si no presenta su respuesta a tiempo, puede perder el caso por incumplimiento y la corte le podra quitar su sueldo, dinero y bienes sin mas advertencia.

Hay otros requisitos legales. Es recomendable que llame a un abogado inmediatamente. Si no conoce a un abogado, puede llamar a un servicio de remision a abogados. Si no puede pagar a un abogado, es posible que cumpla con los requisitos para obtener servicios legales gratuitos de un programa de servicios legales sin fines de lucro. Puede encontrar estos grupos sin fines de lucro en el sitio web de California Legal Services, (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California, (www.sucorte.ca.gov) o poniendose en contacto con la corte o el colegio de abogados locales.

AVISO: Por ley, la corte tiene derecho a reclamar las cuotas y los costos exentos por imponer un gravamen sobre cualquier recuperacion de $10,000 o mas de valor recibida mediante un acuerdo o una concesion de arbitraje en un caso de derecho civil. Tiene que pagar el gravamen de la corte antes de que la corte pueda desechar el caso.

11523 Summit Wood Road, Los Altos Hills

Offered at $2,695,000 | 4 Bedrooms | 2.5 Bathrooms | Home ±2,950 sf | Lot ±44,355 sf

Beautifully sited on a gently sloped, wooded knoll surrounded by heritage oaks, this Santa Barbara style ranch is the perfect entrée into Los Altos Hills. Although just minutes from downtown Los Altos and in close proximity to Silicon Valley's tech and venture capital centers, the serene setting feels worlds away. Retreat up the hill to this tranquil and very private spot in the prestigious Pink Horse Ranch neighborhood. The arched entry walkway, terra cotta tile roof, dramatic rustic beamed ceilings and richly-colored tile flooring create an understated Southwestern aesthetic to this original four bedroom, two and a half bath home. Custom built for the current owners in 1970, the spacious, well-designed floor plan lends itself to reimagining for the way we live, work and play today. Come see this inviting property and plan the updates that will make it your own. Exceptional Los Altos Schools and easy access to the 24 miles of hiking trails at Rancho San Antonio Preserve round out this special offering.
